Dear Mr. Gorberg:

As a retired [REDACTED] physician [REDACTED] I now have the time to view the television more so than I did in the past 35 years. I observed oftentimes on NBC's Channel 10 (WCAU) your commercial regarding the My Lemon. Your declared willingness to aid the Delaware Valley viewers per the statement, "Your car belongs on the road and not in the shop", causes me to write.

My direct question of you concerns whether your services are limited to cars or wives as well! My inquiry is based upon the following facts that are relevant to your advertisement

1. I acquired my wife, Nancy, over 38 years ago, and presumably her warranty as issued by her parents is still valid and in effect to this time.
2. My wife belongs in the house and not in the shop; well she spends a considerable amount of time in the shop, ie. the Malls, Retail Outlets or the Shopping Centers.
3. The rising costs in maintaining her upkeep also extends to the times she spends at the medical shops of doctors' offices, out-patient clinics, radiology centers etc.

I may add that she has extended the privilege of her driver's license to driving me crazy and her marriage license to clean the car rather than taking it to a Car Wash, as well as to clean the house and to maintain the lawn. In addition, my contract with the parental dealership and the good Lord was to keep her until 'death do us part', but more recently, she has threatened to be with me through eternity. The 'for richer or poorer' phrase in the contract is also being taken seriously, most especially the second term, and the phrase, 'in sickness and in health' is also being extended to the limits, more recently the first term!

I would appreciate your kind response as to the extent that you can apply My Lemon law.

Very seriously yours,

Anthony [REDACTED]
